

Fatma Attia is an assistant professor in Construction and Building Engineering department at the Egyptian Chinese University (ECU). She received her B.Sc. degree in Civil Engineering from Cairo University Faculty of Engineering. She received her M.Sc. and Ph.D. in Structural Engineering from Cairo University Faculty of Engineering. Her research interests include Structural Analysis and design of reinforced concrete and prestressed concrete structures, structural dynamics, earthquake engineering, seismic risk assessment, blast loading analysis, and progressive collapse risk assessment.